DEATH OF CAPTAIN SAMUEL T. WILLIAMS.

The annoancement of the untimely death of this brilliant and gifted man will carry profound sorrow to many. very many hearts in North Carolina. And well it may, for it is indeed a time to mourn when the State loses such a son as Samuel T. Williams.

But highly respected, as was as tenderly loved And so pure and blameless was his life, both public and private, that even in this slanderous age and though oftea-for instance, in 1872-that he ever struck manful blows in the cause of right, no man had the hardihood to breathe the slightest suspicion even of his rectitude.

The following touching and beauti ful tribute to his worth and to his memory, which we take from the Star of yesterday, does honor both to the dead and the living.

His virtues will live after him like shining stars in the firmament, and the sweet influences of his life will long be felt in the lives of those who survive. May God have granted him the sweet boon of eternal peace!

Samuel T, Williams was a native of Nash county, and a graduate of Emory and Henry College, Virginia. He moved to Oxford, Granville county, some years before the war, and obtained license just previous to the opening of hostilities, to practice law. About that time-we think 1859 -he succeeded Mr. Kingsbury as editor of the Leisure Hour. He wrote Mr. G. N. SCHURZ IN TROUBLE. The purport of a private letter writen by Mr. Schurz to a friend in Washington has been made public and is bringing its writer and the Radical party very great trouble. Mr. Schurz gave it as his opinion that both Indihana and Ohio would go for Tilden and Hendricks, very much to the disgust of the Radical leaders generally. These at the tenor of Mr. Schurz's speeches, which they say are principally confined to laudations of civil service reform and abuse of Prosident Grant's administration. It is said that the Republican campaign committee propose now to cancel their engagement with Mr Schurz, or rather that they have done 80, as they do not consider that he is helping their cause. The National Republican, President Grant's own peculiar organ and mouth-piece, is very wuch exercised about the matter, as it may well be, and takes Mr. Schurz roundly to task for blurting out the truth and declares he was employed to canvass for no such purpose. The Republican says:

"Some controversy and accompanys ing wild statements have been proyoked by the public announcement that Carl Schurz has informed his personal friends that the chances of Republican success in Ohio and Indiana are precarious. To put these controersies at rest we rise to explain that Mr. Schurz, to the best of our infor mation, did write a letter to an intimate friend, in which the prediction was most unequivocally pronounced. in explanation of this, it is asserted hat his speeches in the campaign thus far have been addressed to the subject of civil service reform, and that their groundwork has been a baseless assault pon the administration of President rant. In the opinion of competent Party authority, speeches of this kind are not calculated to advance the inerests of the common cause. and, it is umored, Mr. Schurz was told to mend lls ways.
